The Attorney-General of Louisiana Calls for More Reconstruction.

NEW ORLEANS Jan 10.—Attorney General Dibble who acted as counsel for Representatives before the congressional committee has addressed a long letter to the chairman of the committee in which he takes ground that everything that has occurred in the State (Louisiana) since the election in 1872 has been revolutionary, utterly beyond the process of law and in violation of the fundamental rules and principles which underlie a republican government within the purview of the Constitution of the United States. He declares his belief that Kellogg has done well as governor but says the prejudice created against him is so strong that the people won't believe any good can come from him. Referring to the White League he says it is a political military organization under the control of discreet men who have checked in great part the outbreaks against the blacks which have been so frequent in the State. He concludes that Louisiana has not a republican form of government and therefore recommends a reconstruction of the State

Phil. Sheridan Getting Royally Mad

NEW ORLEANS Jan 8.—Gen Sheridan to day telegraphed Secretary Belknap as follows. Prominent persons here for the past few days have been passing resolutions and getting up sentimental protests for northern political consumption. They seem to be trying to make martyrs of themselves. It cannot be done at this late date. There have been too many bleeding negroes and ostracized whites for their statements to be believed by fair minded people. Bishop Wilmer protests against my telegram forgetting that on Saturday last he testified under oath before the congressional committee to a condition of affairs substantially as bad as reported by me. I shall soon send a statement of murders committed in the State during the past three or four years, which remain unpunished. I think the number will startle you. It will be up in the thousands.

He also telegraphs to the Secretary "I shall send you this evening a report of affairs as they actually occurred here on the 4th inst. My telegrams to you of the 4th, 5th and 6th are truthful pictures of the situation and strike so near the water line that ministers of the Gospel and others are appealed to to prevent the ship from sinking. Human life has been held too cheaply in this State for years."

[illegible] by [illegible]

Wiltz Speaker and Trevesant Clerk and sixty two members of the first organized House of Representatives, have prepared and sent to Congress a statement of events occurring on the 4th

Bluster.

WASHINGTON Jan 9—Sheridan has telegraphed that he did not assume command until 9 o'clock on the evening of the 4th of January the day the legislature organized, but is willing to be held responsible for the military on that day. Bloodshed was anticipated and threats were made to [illegible] the Governor and Republican members. He gives an account of the proceedings in the House on the 4th inst. claiming that the Conservatives were in a minority and that they usurped control of the House

A Nut for the Organs to Crack.

The sub-committee which has been investigating matters in Louisiana returned last night. They are reticent pending the presentation of their views to the full committee, and are maturing and making a report to the House but enough is known to authorize the statement that there is no conflict of opinion among the sub committee as to the principal points in the controversy. The action of the returning board in throwing out returns from certain parishes in which Conservatives were [illegible], and giving certificates to some Republicans not elected will be condemned. The testimony taken before the committee does not sustain the charges of violence and intimidation toward negro voters.

Louisiana in Congress

WASHINGTON Jan 8.—A long discussion of affairs in the state of Louisiana was followed by a vote on Conkling's amendment to the Thurman resolution, and it was agreed to—32 to 21

In the House, Butler introduced a bill to provide for a fair election in Louisiana

Rumored Dissensions in the Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, Jan 10.—There are rumors of dissensions in the Cabinet on account of the Louisiana troubles. It is stated that Fish has tendered his resignation.

It seems probable that three members of the Cabinet are not in accord with the President.

Cabinet Officers Interviewed

WASHINGTON Jan 10.—Cabinet officers have been interviewed regarding Secretary Belknap's telegram from General Sheridan indorsing the course of the military in Louisiana

Bristow, Fish and Jewell say they know nothing of any telegraphic correspondence until they saw it in print. Belknap, Robeson and Williams are non committal. Delano is absent. All decline to express an opinion on the state of affairs in the absence of official reports.

Attorney General Williams understands that Sheridan's epithet applied only to leaders of the White League, in regard to whose character he thinks it conveys a pretty correct idea

Call for a Convention of the States.

RICHMOND Va., Jan 10.—Resolutions were introduced in the Senate to day requesting the Governors of the several States to convene as soon as practicable the legislatures of their respective States that the States may consult together and advise with each other relative to the late interference of the army of the United States with the legislature of Louisiana, and determine simultaneously to defend and preserve the independence and autonomy of the States. The Governor of Virginia is requested to telegraph the resolutions to the Governors of other States and request an immediate reply

Another Fatal Blow to the Intimidation Dodge.

LIVINGSTON, Ala. Jan 10.—Albright and Buckner congressional investigating committee yesterday concluded a four days investigation into the killing of Billings and Ivey and the whipping of the negro, Doyle which were proved but there was no proof connecting the acts with political motives

In refutation of the charge of intimidation evidence was given that in the last election the Republican vote in Sumpter county increased 31 per cent over Grant's vote in 1872.

BEN BUTLER AND 80 OTHERS

OUR OLD FRIEND STRABISMUS AT A BOSTON DINNER PARTY—HE GOSSIPS ABOUT HIS DEFEAT

BOSTON Dec 29.—A dinner was given to-night to Gen. Butler by about 80 gentlemen, at Young's hotel. Collector Simmons was present, and so was E L Morton of navy yard fame. After dinner several speeches were made, of which that of "Old Strabismus" himself was, of course the most interesting. The main points of general interest are as follows

They say it was the press which defeated me, but in looking into the district in the heart of the commonwealth where an idol of the press was a candidate I found that he lost more votes than I did, so I concluded that it was not the press. It was said that Simmonsism did it, but I found that in one of the Boston districts a friend of the collector was elected where the parties were very evenly divided and I concluded that it could not be that. Some said that it was because I did not belong to the church but I looked in another district and saw that a man who is prominent in the church and who gives largely to support it was defeated and our loss was heavy and I concluded it could not be because I was not in the church. Then they said that it was the salary grab that did it. I looked in another direction, and found that the man who took the back pay in 1853 1856 and also in 1872 and who made the best speech that was made for it in the House in 1872 was elected by a large majority. I made up my mind it was not that. Then somebody said "Oh, you voted for Jeff Davis 57 times in the Charleston convention, and the people of Massachusetts have not forgotten that." I looked into Mr Dawes' district and found there, elected by a heavy majority, a man who voted with me in the Charleston convention. I saw then that the next Congress would contain a man who voted for Jeff Davis 57 times, as well as this one, and I concluded that it was not that.

"You hear much of investigation gentlemen and many committees are promised when the new Congress meets but you need have no fear, gentlemen when these committees investigate the guest of the evening

Gen Butler was warmly applauded every few minutes. He touched on many points and tendered his hearty thanks to the gentlemen present for the spontaneous testimonial of their regard and respect for him

WHOSE BOY IS THAT?—He may be seen any day in almost any part of the city, he never makes room for you on the sidewalk, looks at you saucily, and swears smartly if asked anything. He is very impudent and often vulgar to ladies who pass. He delights in frightening and sometimes does serious injury to little boys and girls. He lounges at the street corners, and is the first arrival at a dog fight or any other sport or scrape. He crowds into the postoffice in the evening and multiplies himself and his antics at such a rate that people having legitimate business are crowded out, he thinks himself very sharp, he is certainly very noisy, he can smoke and chew tobacco now and then and rip out an oath most any time. We ask whose boy he is. Mother is he yours. We think not for there are many good qualities in the lad and we do not think that you know what he does on the street. Look after him, mother, keep him more at home. Train him and you will have a son to be proud of.—Ex

EFFECT OF AMMONIA FUMES ON FLOWERS.—Prof Gabbe has been examining the effects of ammonia on the color of flowers. It is well known that the smoke of tobacco will when supplied in sufficient quantity change the tint of flowers but Prof Gabbe experiment by pouring a little ammoniacal liquor into a saucer and inverting a funnel over it. Placing the flowers in the tube of the latter he find that blue, violet and purple-colored blossoms become of a fine green, carmine and crimson become black, white yellow while parti-colored flowers, such as red and white, are changed to green and yellow. If the flowers are immersed in water the natural color will return in a few hours. Prof Gabbe also found that asters acquire a pleasing odor when submitted to the fumes of ammonia. Try it

The grave of Ezra Cornell at Ithaca N Y will scarcely be found twenty five years from now from the brambles and weeds that will be thriving upon it. This fact is clearly indicated by a dispatch which says that a movement is already on foot to erect a monument over his grave

An elderly lady on High street whose well has been dry as a hip for three weeks exclaimed the other day: "Well I've belonged to the Baptist church nigh onto forty years and I've always had water enough until this ere new church was built. I suppose it's because it takes more to run it."

The Methodist annual conference of Alabama is not quite so radical on the temperance question as some of their Northern brethren. They voted down the temperance amendment to the discipline, making the drinking or selling of liquor incompatible with membership in that church—yeas, 48, nays 56

The slang of Mark Twain's new play has reached Norristown. A gentleman returned a pound of cheese he had bought of a grocer with the remark that it was "too lively" for his use. The grocer, somewhat offended examined his cheese, and replied that it was worth as much as any other cheese. "Yes" returned the customer "there's millions in it."

The folly of the gratuitous advertising of theatrical performances by their indiscriminate abuse was well illustrated in Worcester, Mass a few days since. The clergymen of that place united in denouncing the Black Crook last Sunday week and thereupon that place has not seen such an enormous audience as flocked to the hall to witness the immoral performance. Old and young male and female crowded for places just to see if the parsons were correct and it was really so wicked and immoral

The Boston Times says: An Episcopal church in a city not Buffalo employed Mr [illegible] to order a bell to be cast in Toronto with the motto upon it "Merry Christmas." In due time the article was made and delivered but imagine the chill which dashed the benignity of that committee when it was uncovered and the inscription, which had been given to the agent verbally was seen to read, "Mary Crismest." The best nerve among them broke the spell of silence by refusing to accept the job. Whereupon the other party produced a written order in the agent's hand to prove that he had "followed copy."

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC R R

EXTRACT FROM REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF INTERIOR

Stock of the Northern Pacific Railroad Co (as shown by last report) to the amount of $100 000 000 has been subscribed and certificates for 202 320 shares, of $100 each, have been issued. The main line of the road has been built, and is now in daily operation from Duluth on Lake Superior, westward to Bismarck on the Missouri river, a distance of 450 miles; and from Kalama, on the north side of the Columbia river in the Territory of Washington, northward to Tacoma on Commencement Bay Puget Sound a distance of 105 miles. The cost of the surveys of the lines of the road including necessary purchase of right of way, has been $1 108 994 75. The extent of the lines surveyed is 9 388 miles and, in addition, 2 350 miles of river reconnoissance. When the final locations shall have been made the number of miles surveyed will be about 12 000 and the cost of the surveys will aggregate about $1 500 000—equal to about $125 per mile. The company owns by purchase an equal half of the Lake Superior and Mississippi Railroad from Duluth to the junction with the Northern Pacific Railroad a distance of 24 miles. In 1873 the road was definitely located west of Bismarck from the mouth of Heart river, a tributary of the Missouri to the mouth of Glendive Creek a tributary of the Yellowstone, a distance of 205 miles. This portion of the line has been made ready for construction, and bids have been received after public notice for clearing, grubbing grading and bridging the entire distance. The company's report states that it is safe to estimate that the next 205 miles of road west of Bismarck can be constructed at a maximum cost of $20 000 per mile, if paid for monthly and in cash. The hostility of the Indians constitutes an obstruction to engineering work. The amount received from the transportation of passengers on the road (in both the Pacific and Minnesota divisions) for the last fiscal year was $560,878 73 from the freight transportation for same period on said divisions $137 252 07, total $838 131 40. The expense of the road and fixtures has been: For surveys $1 108 278 52, construction, including docks and wharves, $14 446 556 54, auxiliary and connecting rail and water lines $2 728 950 09 equipment, $2,434 540 25 general expenses including officers' salaries traveling expenses, taxes, rents, attorneys fees, etc $630,454 71, total, $21,313 416 11. The indebtedness of the company is as follows: First mortgage bonds (dollar) $28 847 600—first mortgage bonds (sterling) $1 250 000 bills payable $702,293 30 accounts payable, $7[illegible]042 20 bonds and scrip issued to fund interest [illegible] total, $31,658 650 56. On the 1st of December last you accepted a section of 196 4 miles of this road, and on the 12th of May of the present year a portion of 10 1 miles making a total number of miles approved 529 41

STARVED TO DEATH.—The Urbana Citizen says: It is demonstrated that a horse will starve to death if food be kept entirely from it in just four weeks to a day. But the lesson was an expensive one. It cost a valuable mare, and the lesson was of no value when learned. A gentleman's horse of that town had been missing from its stable since Nov 14th and much time and money expended in attempts to recover the beast, which was fast and worth a number of hundred dollars. But the searchers—like a great many other searchers—were all the while looking too far off for the mare was in the stable of a neighbor but a few blocks away. The stable was unused and the mare wandered into it and in some way the door was closed. Day after day did the people in the house to which the barn belonged hear the horse, but supposing the barn which they had not rented was in the occupancy of some one who had rented it nothing was thought of the matter. Just four weeks from the day the mare strayed away she was found dead in that barn. She had eaten everything within reach even much of the wood but she died with her head thrown over her back as if in great agony

A HARDWARE STORE IN BED.—The Burlington (Iowa) Hawkeye man says the other night a man who lives out on Columbia street was kept down town by business until a very late hour and his wife knowing how cold he would be when he got home put an iron on the stove and when she heard him open the gate she jumped up and, hurriedly wrapping the iron in a piece of flannel, chucked it into bed for him to warm his great feet by. The man was cold, and taciturn and cross. He crawled into bed with a groan and shuddered with cold as he stretched himself out.

Then he gave a yell that shook the roof and jammed his head through the headboard and screamed fire, and waltzed out on the floor and around the room in the dark, filling the darkness with wild profanity. When his wife lighted the lamp they discovered a beautiful photograph of a sadiron on that man's foot, and it was found that the flannel had somehow got off the foot warmer. The man says that hereafter if he must sleep with a hard ware store he wants it put in cold

There is a rumor current that Mrs Sloan, who died recently in Pierce county, W T left a small fortune on deposit in a Victoria bank, which will fall to her little children, who are now almost fatherless as well, Mr Sloan having been so unsettled in his reason by his bereavement as to necessitate his confinement—temporary we hope—in the asylum at Steilacoom. He is a clergyman of little property and was left with six small children, whose prospects for the future were gloomy indeed. But now it is said that several years since she received a bequest and, unknown to her husband, deposited it and now it remains to provide home comforts for the darlings she was called upon to leave behind her

UNLOAD, AND LET US HAVE PEACE

A little while ago—just before the November elections, we believe—some favored newspaper correspondent sitting at the feet of the Great Silent Man, heard him murmur in the ear of a delegation "The Republican party in the South must unload." Subsequently, the President was understood to extend his observation so as to include the North. Whether or not he was burdened with prescience of what was coming in November no man can say. Just here the lips of the Sphinx closed. The words were caught up and hurled in staring broadsides all over the Union. It must be confessed they produced a momentary sensation. The people had made up their mind to "unload," party or no party. And they commenced in earnest last November. One after another the members of the Forty-third Congress were dumped into the general waste basket, along with the Third Term heresy and the Outrage business. The independent voter was abroad.

On a certain other occasion President Grant made the laconic observation: "Let us have peace." This saying had a bigger run than the Black Crook. For a good many months it was a kind of war cry for the Republican party. Of late it isn't heard as frequently, the war cry now is "Secessionist" and "rebel sympathizer," and General Sheridan's "bleeding negroes."

It has occurred to us that just now the President might prepare a revised edition of his aphorisms based on the state of the country in the year of grace 1875. If, in the seclusion of the White House, he should glance over the Union, he might be chagrined and disappointed to witness the fruits of his departure from the rule of silence. In the first place, the people "unloaded" some of his most intimate associates. Beginning with Williams and Boss Shepherd, they took Mr. L. P. Poland, Esq., by the seat of his pantaloons and set him down "kerchug" on the verdant slopes of his native hills. All to the infinite astonishment of that venerable martinet. Thence south, into the Essex district, where they put Mr. Butler to studying the causes of his defeat. Thence south by west into Middlesex, leaving Mr. Gooch to ponder over tidal waves and their effects on navy yards. In the southern States they found long lines of bayonets protecting the sacred persons of R[illegible] candidates, and their success was not so signal. So much for one aphorism. How about the other: "let us have peace?" If the administration organs are to be believed, the Union was never so much disturbed as now. The people of the South, say they, have organized into gangs of murderers and assassins. The organ in this city tells us that the bankers, the merchants and the clergymen of the South are redhanded murderers. Whenever a negro is killed, the two bishops who signed a protest against Sheridan's cruel dispatch to Secretary Belknap, smile on the cut-throats and give them their benediction. The Republican individual who lives in the South carries his life in his hand. And the organ produces the proof of all these things: "in 1860 [illegible] T. Monroe, at the head of a band of roughs, surrounded the Constitutional Convention at New Orleans and remorselessly slew two hundred Republicans." And then it wants to know if their blood shall go unavenged. More than that: "in 1860 [illegible] fired on Fort Sumter." And it wants to know if Fort Sumter must go unavenged. It appeals to the Republicans of Oregon to "stand by their principles," and see that Fort Sumter and the two hundred slain in New Orleans are suitably avenged by the arrest, trial by military commission and execution of every man who calls himself a Conservative. To be sure there are some minor constitutional prohibitions in the way of such vengeance; but, we are told, such obstacles are easily hewn to fragments by the sword.

We were saying that, according to the bosom friends of the President, Aphorism No. 2 has not been what may be termed a huge success. Perhaps he really meant to [illegible] peace; but he went into the South with a sword, to conquer a peace against the law and the Constitution. Perhaps, after all, he really intended to "unload" the carpet-bag Republicans. Perhaps, [illegible], it may occur to him that he got hold of the wrong cart.

CABINET MYSTERIES.

It was wholly unnecessary for the telegraph to hint at the President's favorites in the Cabinet. If any of the members should [illegible] on account of dissatisfaction with the course of the Administration in the South, everybody knows it would not be Geo. H. Williams, or Geo. S. Robeson, or Columbus Delano—and we might add Wm. W. Belknap.

For some reason, the movements of the Departments of Justice and War have been carefully concealed from three officers of the Cabinet—Secretaries Bristow and Fish and Postmaster-General Jewell. From our latest Eastern exchanges we learn that when it was rumored that Sheridan was to be sent to New Orleans, the Cabinet officers above named professed utter ignorance of any such intention on the part of the President. And when the Chicago Times authoritatively announced Sheridan's departure from that city they were wholly ignorant of his mission. The New York papers asserted "on high official authority" that Sheridan went "on the personal request of the President." To-day, the dispatches state that these same Cabinet officers have hitherto been quite as ignorant of the telegraphic correspondence between Sheridan and Secretary Belknap. Then comes the significant report of Fish's resignation with the equally significant assertion that "three of the Cabinet are not in accord with the President" on the Louisiana question.

Now if the Administration has ever undertaken a serious business it is the management of the Louisiana affair. If it has ever engaged in an important political move, full of results most important to the Republican party, it was in executing the midnight order of Durell to its last jot and tittle. It looks a little singular that those members of the Cabinet in whose statesmanship and honesty the people most confide, were not consulted. Perhaps Grant can afford to ignore this popular confidence. We do not think his party can afford it, though. Organs may snap their fingers and cry "rebel" and "secessionist;" but recent events in Louisiana are fraught with gravest dangers to the party. Thinking men appreciate this. Blaine and Butler see it, and they are doing their best to retrieve lost ground.

WHAT DID SHERIDAN SAY?

Some shrewd counselor at the elbow of the Attorney-General—can anybody guess who it was?—has been advising Mr. Williams that things are moving a little too fast in New Orleans, and it might be well to check up the dogs of war for a little time. So Mr. Williams began to hedge last Tuesday, when he "disclaimed all connection with recent Louisiana movements." Yesterday he attempted to soften the savage tone of Sheridan's dispatch to Secretary Belknap, denouncing the White Leaguers as "banditti" who should be tried by military commission. The Attorney-General says Sheridan didn't mean to say that every White Leaguer is a bandit, he alluded to the leaders only. It is worth while (seeing the recommendation has been denounced all over the country as barbarous, inhuman and uncivilized) to shift from the shoulders of the Administration the burden of responsibility for such sentiments.

But a careful reading of Sheridan's dispatch will convince any one that Sheridan meant just what the press has given him credit for saying. Here are his words:

> "I think the terrorists now existing in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas could be entirely removed and confidence and fair dealing established by the arrest and trial of the ringleaders of the armed White Leagues if Congress would pass a bill declaring them banditti. They could be tried by a military commission. The leaders of this banditti who murdered men here on the 14th of last September, and also more recently at Vicksburg, Miss., should, in justice to law and order and the peace and prosperity of this southern part of the country, be punished. It is possible that if the President would issue a proclamation, declaring them banditti that no further action need be taken except that which would devolve upon me."

General Sheridan plainly means to recommend that the White League be treated as "a banditti," for he speaks of the leaders of "this banditti." It is not surprising that the Administration now wants to temper the hot-headed utterances of this bloodthirsty warrior. The New York Times is right in denouncing Sheridan's proposition as being "opposed to the Constitution, and the practice of a hundred years."

COME DOWN TO MODERN TIMES.

The Bulletin is still rummaging "Greeley's American Conflict" for instances wherein Northern men were maltreated at the South in 1860. It may be beneficial to the editor by way of refreshing his memory, and we hope his readers enjoy the regular three columns of reminiscences of the rebellion they get in the shape of editorial articles, every morning. The Bulletin has now got down as far as the bombardment of Fort Sumter. When it reaches 1874 we shall be glad to hear from it on the question: has the President power, under the Constitution of the United States, to overturn the Legislatures of States at his pleasure?

Here is the resolution passed by the Senate, yesterday, after six days' wrangling over the words italicized.

Resolved, That the President of the United States is hereby requested, if in his judgment it is not incompatible with the interests of the public service, to inform the Senate whether any portion of the army of the United States or officers or soldiers of such army, did in any manner interfere or seek to interfere with the organization of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana, on the 4th inst., especially whether any persons claiming seats in either branch of said Legislature have been deprived thereof, or prevented from taking the same by any such military force, and if such has been the case, the President is requested to inform the Senate by what authority such military intervention and interference has taken place.

John W. Pittock, Esq., founder of the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Leader, gave the 10th annual dinner to the news-boys and boot-blacks—about 200—in that city, on New Year's day.

DINNER TABLE SQUABBLES.—Perhaps nothing is more prejudicial to the proper assimilation of food than disputation. The mind becomes irritated and, instantaneously the stomach sympathizes. A dinner is the worst possible place for an argument which may easily become hatred and acrimonious. Nor should it be a place where children are constantly reproved, or their bad conduct suffered to destroy the comfort of the meal. Discipline in the household is highly necessary, but the wise mother will not make it a prominent feature at table. Good news, happy thoughts, innocent mirth and cheerful sayings are the most efficacious relishes and should be used freely. An uncomfortable meal, whatever may be the cause, is almost certain to produce indigestion, And though such small matters may be thought by many unimportant, they go very far toward the establishment of good health, and even the most robust cannot neglect them with impunity.

FERNANDO'S SOUP.—The Democratic press have commenced a vigorous attack upon the various candidates for Speaker of the next House of Representatives. The correspondent of the Chicago Times, in speaking of those who are maneuvering for this honor, says that the courtly white-moustached ramrod, Fernando Wood, has commenced the most systematic course of self-advancement. He has a honey phrase and flattering reminiscence for every member of his party who can be of any service next session. He has gracious words, and what he knows gives him greater grace in their eyes, he has news for the correspondents. His manner is impressively magnetic, and his terrapin soup is a royal dish." There is evident want of harmony in the ranks of the Democracy.

MEETING HIM DOWN.—The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "A young man with a hungry look and a cadaverous appearance yesterday entered our sanctum and said he had written a poem indicative of the season of the year, and particularly applicable to the state of the weather then existent. He begged leave to read it. We consented, and he began

> Oh, the snow! the beautiful snow!"

"At this point we took him by the ear, led him down in the furnace-room, and opening the doors under the boilers so that he could get a clear view within, we read to him the Enquirer's account of the recent murder. By the time we were through with our recitation he was perfectly weakened, and confessed that the poem was not original with him."

HORRIBLE CONFESSIONS BY ONE OF THE MURDERERS OF THE BORUM FAMILY.—Memphis, Jan. 5.—Four negroes have been arrested near Sharon for the murder and burning of the Borum family. One of them confessed that there were six engaged in the murder. He said that they killed Borum, his wife, and the negro, and then burned the two children alive. The confession has caused a great excitement, and twenty men have started for West Point to burn the negroes.

THE LOUISIANA OUTRAGE.

FURTHER PARTICULARS BY MAIL.

NEW ORLEANS, January 4th.

The members of the Legislature assembled at the State-house are the most orderly body of legislators so far that has met in Louisiana for many years. Foster and Phelps, of the congressional committee, are present, but decline seats on the platform. The chief clerk called the roll, which showed 102 members present. Mayor L. A. Wiltz was elected temporary chairman, and appointed temporary sergeants-at-arms and clerks. Great confusion prevailed for some time, but order was finally restored, and Wiltz made a brief speech, saying that he would treat all members fairly, without reference to party or color. Col. Lowell protested against the manner of temporary organization. Speaker Wiltz replied that the manner of organization was identical with that of 1868, in which Lowell participated. Five members, not returned by the board, were recognized by a resolution of the members of the House, and took their seats.

A motion was then made to proceed to permanent organization. Whereupon a scene of great confusion ensued, which was increased by a motion to seat members from contested parishes. The Republicans protested against the organization, and denounced it as revolutionary. The sergeant-at-arms was called upon to seat members and restore order, and finally a motion to proceed to permanent organization carried, and L. A. Wiltz and ex-Gov. Hahn were put in nomination. When the call of the roll was about half through, Hahn asked leave to make a few remarks, which privilege was accorded him. He declined the nomination, and protested against the manner of organization. He declared himself in favor of reform, and called upon the Democrats as well as his fellow Republicans to join him in an honest effort to obtain it. At last the call was finished and the result announced. Wiltz, 55, Hahn, 2, blank, 1.

A quorum having voted, Wiltz was declared elected and the oath of office administered. The main Republican members had left the House and the rest started to go, but the Speaker directed the sergeant-at-arms to allow no one to go out, and the swearing in of members began. The sergeant-at-arms experiencing some trouble in preventing the exodus of Republican members, Gen. de Trobriand now came into the hall, accompanied by two officers of his staff, a squad of soldiers having been marched into the corridor leading to the hall. Gen. de Trobriand stepped up to Speaker Wiltz and asked that Vigors, former clerk of the House, should read a letter which he presented. Trezevant, the newly-elected clerk, objected, and the General then asked, as he was unable to judge who was clerk of the House, that his adjutant should read the letters. The adjutant then read the letters, one of which stated to the General that an illegal body was sitting as a House of Representatives, and that Vigors, the clerk, would furnish him with a list of those members who had been duly elected, and as such returned by the returning board. Another letter requested the General to eject those members who had not been returned as elected by the board. Wiltz protested, and declared this was a legally organized body. Gen. de Trobriand replied that as a soldier he had only to obey the orders of his superior officers. Wiltz reiterated the statement that the body was legally organized, and added: "After the organization we seated five gentlemen whose cases were referred to us by the returning board. Will you eject these men?" The Gen. repeated that he was an officer and must obey orders, and he came alone thinking his presence would be sufficient to carry out these orders. The Speaker thanked him for his courtesy, and said, "While we submit to the United States Government, it is my duty as Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana to ask you to use force. Until then the five men refuse to leave the hall."

General de Trobriand replied: "I don't like to make a show. I don't know the members. I would prefer for you to point them out. I will ask them to leave, or will you have me to fill the room with soldiers?"

Speaker Wiltz—"I cannot permit those members whom we have just recognized as being elected to be put out. It is my duty to keep up the dignity of the State of Louisiana as well as yours is to keep up that of the United States army."

At this point the chairman of the committee on elections submitted a report declaring eight members whose names were given, and who were rejected by the returning board, elected.

[At this point, General de Trobriand, by the aid of Hugh Campbell, discovered the Conservative members in question and ejected them by force. The remainder of the dispatch has already been published in the OREGONIAN. ED OREGONIAN.]

COMMENTS BY THE NEW ORLEANS PICAYUNE.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5.—The Picayune says: "For the first time in the history of the United States armed soldiers have invaded a legislative hall, and bayonets have been used to expel the representatives of the people from their seats. No one ever dreamed that the President had the right to employ the army for the purpose of shaping the organization of a State Legislature. In this case there was no emergency such as the law contemplates, and no call was made upon him through the channel which the law points out. There was no insurrection, no invasion. The general assembly was in session and had not asked him to interfere. Simply there was an organization of the House which was not agreeable to Kellogg, and upon Kellogg's requisition the President sent his forces to drag from their seats members whom Kellogg asserted had not been properly chosen, and to constitute an organization under his direction. There is no escape from this statement of facts."

ROUGH ON GEO. H. WILLIAMS.

[Sac. Union of Jan. 6.]

We are not disposed to put the responsibility of this act [the Louisiana outrage] upon the general who executed it with a bad grace, nor upon the Secretary of War, nor upon the President. We incline to the opinion, that it will be traced to the man who leads the Department of Justice, only to the shame and disgrace of justice. He has been giving orders to the military of late with a liberal hand and indecent interference with the duties of the Secretary of War. He has of late given out the opinion that the Kellogg government should be maintained at all hazards. It was he who inspired the fraudulent interference of Judge Durell, which has been the source of all the political evils that have since ensued to Louisiana; and we think the ultimate responsibility for the order to General De Trobriand will be traced to the hand and brain of Attorney-General Williams, head of the Department of Justice, and the supporter of some of the most infamous public plunderers who go unhung.

THE BIBLE DISSECTED.

UNDERWOOD, THE NOTED INFIDEL, IN A LIVELY DISCUSSION AT CAIRO, ILL.

[Cor. Chicago Times.]

CAIRO, Ill., Dec 26.—A great debate on the Bible has just been concluded in this city between Rev. O. A. Burgess, president of the Christian University of Indianapolis, and Dr. B. F. Underwood, the somewhat celebrated infidel lecturer. The debate has been a lively one. It lasted four days, being held afternoon and evening. The house has been crowded, and the interest unabated to the end. Both disputants have had the confidence of their respective friends from the beginning, and now both parties say their side was sustained handsomely and triumphantly.

Both debaters have shown ability and scholarship. Burgess is the most ornate in style, Underwood the closest thinker and the most careful reasoner. Burgess is conceded to be the most eloquent speaker; Underwood the most accurate and logical.

One of our city editors who burlesques the whole affair, thus speaks of the distinguished gentlemen:

"Underwood has at his tongue's end all the clap-trap of infidelity. He asks, with a wise look, 'How about the ark?' 'How about the miraculous conception?' Besides this he smatters in geology and astronomy and mathematics, talks about the old philosophers, soars above comprehension and evolves mysteries, leading his hearers into jumbled terms of meaningless import. Burgess is a tall, black-looking man, who bears himself swaggeringly and uses his tongue with some skill; has a 'little learning, and is anxious to air his knowledge.'"

The debate is caricatured thus:

"When Underwood says 'Flood,' Burgess replies, 'Well, what of it? You can't prove it was much of a shower after all.' When Underwood says, 'Moses wasn't very scientific, because he believed God made light before He made the sun,' Burgess says 'Mr. Underwood a serts, but produces no authorities. True, he occasionally quotes from scraps cut from The Daily Dawn of Creation, a very unreliable paper, and in this way seeks to put down Moses. I have read from Herodotus that Moses knew what he was talking about, but this authority is brushed aside. I now ask if Mr. Underwood has not failed to knock the pins from under Moses, who on the mount stood face to face with Jehovah, while round his head the lightnings flashed. Let the gentleman rise up now and at my expense of time, dare to tell me this argument in favor of Moses is not as sound as the eternal hills. Ah! the gentleman don't accept the invitation.' Then Underwood throws the flood about again, which Burgess gathers together and puts into a wash-bowl, exclaiming, 'Shall this great book be put aside for so small amount of water? Never!' and so on.

The other papers treat the debate in a more respectful manner. On the whole, the debate has been a grand success. Christians and free-thinkers both seem well satisfied with the results.

Jingle jingle, goes the merry sleigh bells

The schooner Hera is discharging cargo at Flanders' wharf

A double invoice of Eastern mail arrived at the postoffice last evening

There is but a fraction over nine feet of water in the Wallamet slough

Last evening a number of sleighs were dashing about over frozen streets

The steamer Gussie Telfair will soon commence to discharge her cargo of coal

Large quantities of wheat and flour are stored on Pacific dock awaiting shipment

The O S N Co's elegant steamer Daisy Ainsworth has gone into winter quarters at Klickitat

Bark Rival and schooner Dreadnought sailed last week for Portland and will be due here next week

It will be some time yet before the new engine house of Multnomah Co No 2 will be ready for occupancy

Work we understand is going rapidly forward on the new foundry machine shop and wharf at the new town of Albina

The schooner Superior which arrived at San Francisco a few days ago, will go on the berth during the present week, for this port

Owing to the present cold weather work has been temporarily suspended on the foundation for Col McCraken's new brick building

Carpenters were busily engaged last night to a late hour in tacking around the hull of the Emma Hayward plank and iron plates to protect her against the ice

James Bachelder formerly of the firm of Hines & Bachelder is now a resident of San Francisco and is in the employ of I Friedlander the great grain dealer

A number of interesting and important items were published in our issue of yesterday A rehash of the same will be found in the local columns of the 'fresh news' organ some time this week Look out for them

Always accurate and so fresh is the motto of the organ down street We are requested to contradict the report published in yesterday's Bulletin to the effect that the Water Company's works had frozen Cheerful accuracy

A subscriber, who signs his name 'Citizen' sends the following conundrum Why are our sidewalks now like music? Because if you don't (C) sharp you'll (B) flat By one who speaks from habitual experience'

The fresh news self advertising organ's reporter takes us to task for saying that the steamer Albany sunk on Wednesday How stupid for us to utter such a falsehood but then, the organ says the same thing in the State items

The organ which carries more self conceit than it does brains, and which prides itself on the accuracy and freshness of police court news says it took the officers two hours to bring Ed Kennedy from the jail yard into the building a distance of twenty steps How gratifying to the reporter's pride to get things so accurate and so fresh' Such masterly enterprise must ever be envied

RIVER NEWS.

Two vessels arrived at Astoria a few days ago, and will come up the river as soon as practicable. These vessels are the American bark Wetterhorn and British ship Elizabeth Trap

The steamer Dixie Thompson was met yesterday by the Emma Hayward, steaming down the river towards Astoria That steamer had no difficulty with the ice and no doubt reached her destination in good season

Last evening the steamer Emma Hayward arrived from Astoria in good season No ice was encountered until after St. Helens was passed, and then but little was seen The Hayward will start down the river this morning

A few days ago the little schooner Mila Bond arrived at Astoria from Tillamook Some weeks ago she was blown on the sands inside of Tillamook bar but getting afloat sailed for her destination She may be expected here at any time

The steamer Onward came from down the river yesterday Capt Thayer reports that there are considerable quantities of new ice floating in the Columbia He came by way of Wallamet slough and thus avoided the greater part of it There are immense quantities of ice beached on the southern bank of the river below St Helens

While on the way up the river yesterday the Emma Hayward passed below the mouth of the slough the Annie Stewart which had in tow the ship Mariel and also a large barge. As there was not sufficient water to tow the vessel through the slough, and to attempt to come by way of the river would be hazardous on account of the ice the intention was to leave the Mariel at anchor at the mouth of the slough, and come on to the city with the barge

Yesterday morning at 9 o'clock the steamer Vancouver left the foot of Alder street She arrived at the mouth of the Wallamet without encountering the slightest difficulty, and crossed the Columbia to the north shore Considerable quantities of floating ice were met with while crossing the Columbia but the steamer's bow and sides being well clad with iron and plank she ploughed her way bravely through A number of teams were found waiting at the landing on the other side ready to convey passengers and freight to Vancouver Until further notice the steamer will leave here every morning at 9 o clock

WEARY OF LIFE

A PROMINENT MINISTER OF THE GOSPEL CUTS HIS OWN THROAT—HE IS DETECTED IN STEALING A BOOK IN A STORE—THE SHAME OF EXPOSURE SUPPOSED TO BE THE CAUSE OF THE ACT

A Washington dispatch says The Rev J M Cooms, pastor of the Western Presbyterian Church of this city committed suicide here this morning under extraordinary circumstances A Sunday paper contained the following paragraph For many months the store of a prominent bookseller has been visited by a man well on in years and neatly dressed after the fashion of a minister of the Gospel He would walk around the store examine books reading passages but never making a purchase Lately our stationer has missed books and all attempts to find how they were taken failed until yesterday, when the clerical looking gentleman was discovered to be a kleptomaniac He was standing in the store quietly reading a book he had taken when a customer entered upon whom the proprietor turned to wait upon The instant his back was turned the gospel gentleman left the store The stationer immediately followed him, and coming up asked what he did with that book The reverend gentleman turned pale and with the exclamation For God's sake don't expose me publicly' brought forth the stolen book from his coat' That clergyman was J N Cooms This morning his congregation at the fashionable West End assembled at the usual time The hour for services came but the pastor was absent A messenger was dispatched to his apartment The door was barred The messenger forced the door to find the dead body of Cooms in his chamber with his throat so terribly cut that the head was nearly severed from the body The messenger horror stricken announced the fact to the congregation Subsequent inquiry discloses the following facts Cooms has been an honored and a very successful clergyman in this district for a quarter of a century, at first in the Methodist and lately in the Presbyterian denomination Cooms' wife for some years has been insane This calamity has at times clouded his mind There were no children For some weeks the old family maid servant has noticed that Cooms was unusually depressed and exhibited symptoms similar to those which were manifested in the early stage of Mrs Cooms' insanity This morning for the first time in very many years Cooms ordered all the Sunday papers purchased and brought to him before church The papers were found in his room carefully examined the one containing the above paragraph had last been read and lay on top as if this paragraph had been carefully read The suicide according to the account of time must have speedily followed the reading There was so much method, however in the madness that a considerable quantity of Government bonds were found carefully arranged upon the table near the fatal newspaper The clergyman was a man of property The throat was cut with two razors, and the work was thoroughly done

A GROOM'S MISFORTUNE

DISGRACEFUL AFFAIR IN CATTARAUGUS COUNTY, NEW YORK

A respectable business man residing in Cortland county, was engaged to be married to a young lady who resides at Olean Cattaraugus county The wedding day was fixed and the guests were assembled at the house of the young lady's parents The groom was delayed while enroute to Olean, but he telegraphed to the family to retain the guests until his arrival, about three hours later than the appointed time This was the basis for the disgraceful scenes that followed. It appears that a number of the young men of Olean were envious of the Cortland man, and did not like the idea of a stranger carrying his intended bride away from them Upon hearing of the delay upon the railroad, they went to the depot at the hour for the arrival of the train met the expectant groom took him to a saloon or drinking place induced him to drink drugged liquor and when he had become sufficiently intoxicated to suit their vile purposes he was taken to the house of his affianced and presented to the bride, her parents and the guests This despicable trick worked just as the authors intended it should The bride's parents ordered the groom from the house and the wedding festivities were broken up Not content with what they had done the conspirators employed five or six negroes to prepare a coat of tar and feathers and give the groom a ride upon a rail The victim was taken back to the saloon, more liquor was poured into him and while the orgies were going on the negroes appeared, hustled the insensible Cortland man out of doors, applied tar and feathers to his hair, face and long whiskers and then rode him upon a rail When the scoundrels had finished this fiendish game the stranger was left to himself The facts were subsequently made known to the young lady and her parents, and the arrangements for the wedding were rearranged, and the couple were made happy as soon as the Cortland man had recovered from the effects of the dastardly outrage that had been committed upon him Both parties are possessed of a goodly supply of money, and they are determined to punish the persons engaged in this affair to the full extent of the law The negroes who were only the tools of the black scoundrels with white skins have fled from Olean

WHEN A WOMAN WILL SHE WILL

[From the Cincinnati Commercial]

A few years ago an American lady while studying medicine abroad, having been refused admittance to a course of medical lectures in one of the most noted universities in Germany determined to put on male costume and pass herself off for a young man One day an American consul was summoned to a hotel to see a lady from the United States As there was no reception room in the hotel he was shown up to the room indicated in the note he had received by the servant He looked in vain for the lady but saw what he supposed was a young man sitting on a trunk He was soon undeceived. The "boy" said he was simply in disguise, and set forth at length the reasons for such extraordinary conduct She said she was resolved to attend that course of lectures and had called in the consul to give her real name and place of residence in the United States, so that in case of trouble she could appeal to him for protection The position of the consul was a novel one but he finally consented to take the lady's statement and promised to keep the secret inviolate, unless she should be discovered This did not happen The disguise answered its purpose the lady remained at the institution a year passed through the course with honor, and is doubtless now applying the knowledge gained in her practice somewhere in the United States We suppress all names of persons and places for obvious reasons but give the fact in illustration of the indomitable perseverance of women ambitious of a professional career in pursuit of knowledge under difficulties.

A WONDERSTRUCK CHINAMAN.—While the gale was at its height a nobby looking Chinaman was walking behind a young lady dressed in the extreme agony of fashion when a sudden gust of wind blew the Celestial's tail forward and wrapped the end of it around the lady's neck Being frightened, she grabbed the end of the queue to snatch it away but pulled in the wrong direction The Chinaman also made a grab to recover his property, but he got hold of one of those long curls and when he took a pull at it the whole of the lady's top hair came off If ever you saw a Chinaman astonished it was that one —Petaluma Enterprise

MENNONITE GOSPEL —One of the leading elders of the Mennonites, thirty years ago, was one Miller, a man of immense strength Passing a crowd of idlers at the court house he was stopped with the question Miller they say if one smites a Mennonite on the right cheek he will turn the other Is that so? That is true" The questioner here gave him a smart blow on the cheek, when Miller turning the other cheek had it duplicated This raised a great laugh as the fellow turned away Stop my friend said Miller if you had read a little further you would have found another passage that we also hold by With the measure that ye mete unto others it shall be meted to you again and heaping full and packing him up bodily fairly thrashed the wall with him

If you have money lying idle bring it to us and we will loan it out for you on good real estate security and you will realize 12 per cent interest on it net We get our pay out of the borrower

PAUSE WHILE YOU READ THIS! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us Every young man old man and boy for that matter likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties the theater, or walking about the streets They likewise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman or boy than a nice closely fitting suit of clothes set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of Clothing have exercised great care, and selected with reference to the demands of trade They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold Let the public note this fact.

CHARLES SUMNER

BY HENRY W LONGFELLOW

Garlands upon his grave
And flowers upon his hearse,
And to the tender heart and brave
The tribute of this verse

His was the troubled life
The conflict and the pain
The grief the bitterness of strife
The honor without stain

Like Winkelried he took
Into his manly breast
The sheaf of hostile spears, and broke
A path for the oppressed

Then from the fatal field
Upon a nation's heart
Borne like a warrior on his shield —
So should the brave depart

Death takes us by surprise
And stays our hurrying feet
The great design unfinished lies
Our lives are incomplete

But in the dark unknown
Perfect their circles seem
Even as a bridge's arch of stone
Is rounded in the stream

Alike are life and death,
When life and death survive,
And the uninterrupted breath
Inspires a thousand lives.

Were a star quenched on high
For ages would its light,
Still traveling from the downward sky
Shine on our mortal sight

So when a great man dies,
For years beyond our ken
The light he leaves behind him lies
Upon the paths of men

"THAT HANDKERCHIEF."

[From the Charlton County (Mo) Brunswicker]

Tuesday evening a young man called on a gentleman acquaintance whom he expected to find alone, but was ushered into the [illegible] of five or six ladies. Under ordinary circumstances this unexpected array of beauty would not have awed or perplexed him but just at the time he chanced to be laboring under a huge [illegible] of [illegible]. As the juice of the vile plant filled his mouth, he glanced around in search of a spittoon. No such article was visible. He grew warm, and to questions addressed to him he could only answer with a nod or a shake of his head. Just as the tobacco began to steal out of the corners of his overburdened mouth he bethought him of his handkerchief. Hastily drawing it from his pocket he raised the other hand and pointed toward the window. While the ladies were looking in that direction trying to ascertain what had attracted his attention, he quickly squirted the load of tobacco into his handkerchief, rolled it up and placed it in his pocket. Thus relieved from the cause of his embarrassment, and feeling that his strange conduct had excited the surprise of the party he exerted all his powers of mind and manner to remove [illegible] unfavorable impression [illegible] had been created. He chatted and laughed told stories, [illegible], and was so agreeable that the ladies wished he could be with them always. His previous singular demeanor was forgotten, and as jibe and jest fell glibly from his lips each fair listener inwardly wished that "heaven had made her such a man." He told a joke on himself, and it was a good one. They all laughed loud and long, and he as loud and long as any of them. He laughed until [illegible] to his eyes, and he pulled forth his handkerchief and wiped them away.

That handk[illegible]
That [illegible] handkerchief!

In [illegible] of [illegible] the ladies he wiped away the tears of joy with that reeking handkerchief!

"He has broken a blood vessel!" the startled [illegible] fled as swift-winged with fear they flew for [illegible]. When they returned their entertainer was gone. He is still gone and [illegible] the river for his body, as he was last seen flying in that direction.

[illegible] MATTERS [illegible]

REAPPEARANCE OF "[illegible]" OF THE ONCE FAMOUS ACTRESS

[From the N. Y. [illegible]]

After a [illegible] from the stage, Matilda Heron, the once famous Camille, [illegible] in the [illegible] of Lady Macbeth [illegible] to witness the performance which [illegible] interest and curiosity in dramatic circles. There were [illegible] for the lady something [illegible] some who hoped that the power and genius which had given to our stage [illegible] Camille, had not altogether [illegible]. It was natural, therefore [illegible] very like spoken by Lady Macbeth was [illegible] to with the [illegible] at [illegible] by the audience as carefully as by the [illegible] critics. There can be no doubt what the verdict was—it was [illegible] the [illegible] Matilda Heron's [illegible] of Lady Macbeth [illegible] tions, but [illegible] can hardly be regarded as improvements. Instead of the vigorous and fiery Lady Macbeth which we looked for, we were [illegible] with a tame and uninteresting person. There was neither the masculine force of Cushman nor the sleek, cat-like villainy with which Clara Morris seeks to invest the heroine of this magnificent tragedy. In their place we had a womanly picture well nigh colorless. If there were no [illegible] of genius, there were, however no aberrations, and the tone of the character was well preserved throughout.

CLARA MORRIS' FIRST SUCCESS

The first decided success of Miss Morris in New York was almost accidental. Not that she would never have made a success, but for [illegible] only accident helped her. She was playing at the Fifth Avenue Theater, when "Man and Wife" was announced with Miss Agnes Ethel as Blanche, the leading role while Miss Morris was cast for an unimportant part something in the comic line. Suddenly Miss Ethel was taken ill and Miss Morris at a moment's notice, was called upon to assume her character. There was a little shrugging of shoulders among the older actors at Mr Daly's choice, and they rather looked forward to, I will not say hoped for, the failure of this young girl from the provinces. The stage manager gave her a great many instructions as to how the part should be played, to all of which Miss Morris listened patiently, although she had her mind made up about the correct personation of the role

The trying night came, and before she had been upon the stage ten minutes she took that hold upon the public favor that time has only served to increase. The papers the next morning were lavish in their praise and the town went mad over the young actress. It is needless to say that Clara Morris was thereafter the bright particular star in the manager's galaxy. All this success, though very gratifying to Miss Morris, did not serve to turn her head. In fact it only aroused the more her ambition. She is always the same painstaking conscientious artiste, whether praised or censured, and notwithstanding her position as a public favorite, she studies just as hard and just as carefully as though she were the veriest beginner —Buffalo Courier

THE FELLOW THAT WANTED TO FIND OUT HOW MANY MARYS THERE WERE

Wilkins Micawber Jones is of a statistical turn of mind. It occurred to Jones the other day that Mary is a very common name and after a careful study he hit upon an original plan of ascertaining the proportionate number of women bearing it. This plan was to station himself at an advantageous position on one of our thoroughfares, address by that name every woman who passed in an hour and then compare the number who answered to the name with the whole number passing. Nothing could be simpler thought Wilkins and accordingly he began his experiment the other evening just as the theater going tide was flowing along the street. There came two demure-looking damsels. Jones turned and stepping fast, Jones let them get by and then called out suddenly, "Mary!" but the young women only hurried a little faster and the lingerer on Wilkins put down two marks on the side of his tally paper. Just as he lifted his eyes he saw a lady with an escort just in front of him and blurted out "Good evening Mary." Greatly to Jones' astonishment the gentleman and not the lady responded and these are what Jones saw * * * He concluded to give up the experiment because there were too many risks about it — especially asterisks — Boston Bulletin

In local finance there are no important transactions occurring the feeling being one of comfortable ease and no unusual demand is pressing the market. Rates both at the banks and on the street have been rather easier since the beginning of the new year and we hear of one corporation at least that is prepared to accommodate borrowers on country real estate at 10 per cent per annum which is about the lowest terms mentioned yet in our State. Since the December grain fleet were got off wheat buyers have been [illegible] to confine their purchases according to the means entirely available and have not been urgent inquirers either in the grain or money market.

In trade circles business to-day opened with a fair prospect, everything considered and though the inclement weather may have kept most buyers from the interior at home a fair share of order business is being done by our wholesale and jobbing houses. The winter stocks of our city merchants though not excessive in quantity are full as to variety and a strong competition between firms engaged in leading lines of merchandise furnishes buyers the opportunity to secure the best possible terms and all goods imported here are selling at small margins.

The visible supply of wheat in the United States on the 19th ult. was 12,186,943 bushels against 9,012,000 bushels Dec 13, 1873, exclusive of stock at [illegible] [illegible] bushels the [illegible] The shipments [illegible] the [illegible] bushels. The receipts at seaboard [illegible] for the week were 419,010 bushels against 748,95[illegible] bushels the previous week, and the exports from thence were 466,816 bushels against 451,[illegible] bushels the previous week and for the last four weeks ending Dec 26th, 2,083,066 bushels against 2,087,193 bushels the previous four weeks. The sales for the week were 340,400 bushels against 572,000 bushels the previous week. The stock in New York will make nearly 200 vessel loads of 20,100 bushels each. Shippers were cautious and not inclined to force weekly shipments beyond a certain amount for fear of depressing values on the other side. The high prices of [illegible] and the [illegible] had checked the export movement. Holders of wheat have not been inclined to [illegible] sales and were hopeful of a moderate improvement in value when the holiday season should have passed. Last year the export kept the harbor well cleared of floating cargoes in canal boats. It is believed there is no wheat frozen in on the canal this year while last year there was 1,400,000 bushels

From the 11th to the 18th of November 1874 there were 21 wheat laden vessels passed the Dardanelles comprising 5 for Marseilles, 4 for the United Kingdom, 1 for Antwerp, 2 for Rotterdam, 1 for Holland, 1 for Lisbon, 1 for Trieste, 1 for Genoa, 1 for Naples, 3 for Malta and 1 for Syria. The amount of wheat in transit for the United Kingdom on the 27th ult. exclusive of steamer shipments from American Atlantic ports and sail and steamer shipments from the Baltic was 1,245,814 quarters equal to 9,966,512 bushels against 1,377,521 quarters equal to 11,020,168 bushels of the corresponding date in 1873. The expected arrivals of wheat in the United Kingdom during the four weeks to end December 24 1874 441,000 quarters exclusive of steamer shipments from America. Of a fleet of about 70 wheat laden vessels which passed the Dardanelles for the week ended Nov 4, 1874 only 15 were bound for the north of Europe, including 14 for the United Kingdom and 1 for Antwerp. The stock of wheat in Liverpool, Nov 1 1874 was 847,583 quarters, against 303,175 quarters Nov 1 1873 and in London Nov 1, 1874 118,880 quarters against 172,938 quarters Nov 1 1873. English markets were so bare of wheat stocks at the incoming of the harvest that although the farmers deliveries and the imports since September 1, 1874 have every week but two since then exceeded the consumption there has been a limited accumulation of stock

The following table published expressly for the New York Produce Exchange may be considered perfectly reliable and shows the imports of wheat into the United Kingdom during the months of September and October in the years 1872 1873 and 1874. As indicated by this table our exports to that country have rapidly outgrown those of the other nations which compete with the United States in supplying that market during the two months named in each year. The wheat imports in the United Kingdom were

Grain and Flour Market

Though advices from abroad have not materially changed the aspect of affairs in this department of trade there is evidently a much firmer tone to our home market than has prevailed for some time. The impression is abroad that the surplus wheat of the State is in large measure exhausted and farmers under that impression and the belief that a large tonnage supply will soon be at hand are holding their wheat back for advanced rates asking now $1 45 per cental at which it is said considerable could yet be purchased this side of Eugene City. Exporters here as a rule decline to quote at anything over $1 40 though a lot of 12,000 bushels changed hands within three days past at what is believed to be over that figure while 30,000 bushels in one lot offered at 80 cents per bushel in Albany to day was refused as that would be equivalent to nearly $1 50 per cental at this point. The lot first mentioned is choice milling, and with it was purchased 3,000 barrels of flour which we are informed the buyer would sell at cost rather than ship at current freight rates. Most farmers convenient to the lines of transportation have disposed of a large proportion of their samples and are amply able to hold the remainder until it suits them to sell

The accumulations of wheat and flour during the past fortnight have been large and as most of the vessels reasonably certain to arrive during the current month will load at Astoria activity in boat freights on the Columbia will likely be increased as soon as the weather breaks. In the meantime the boats from the Upper Wallamet are daily adding to the amount in store here of which one firm alone holds near 4,000 tons and others large amounts. Some of our State mills are also reported to be large holders of the cereal and are still in the market as buyers. The stiffness in the wheat market has not changed flour quotations as yet but an advance of 25@50c per bbl would not astonish any one in the business should it occur to-morrow

The telegraphic report from San Francisco to day does justice and gives quotations of Oregon wheat at $1 70 per cental, [illegible] rates for the California product. We also call attention to the dispatches below concerning other products, in which an improvement is noted

Eastern Wool Market.

[BY TELEGRAPH]

BOSTON Jan 9 —During the past week there has been a fair business in domestic wool. Sales reached 1,391,900 lbs. The market is very firm for all kinds. Sales are equally divided between fleeces, pull and California. Holders are firm and confident prices will not be changed from last week. There is evidence of a firmer feeling for California fall which is selling more freely. In spring very little has been done. Sales have been made of upwards of 30,000 lbs at 18@30c as to quality; good average lots [illegible]. Anything that commands an advance on these figures must be very choice quality. Sales of spring California have taken 30,000 lbs at 1[illegible].

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla, Dock Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ or organs whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver Stomach Kidneys Lungs Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin St Anthony's Fire Rose or Erysipelas Pimples Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors Tetter and Salt Rheum Scald Head Ringworm Ulcers and Sores Rheumatism Neuralgia Pain in the Bones Side and Head Female weakness Sterility Leucorrhoea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease Dropsy Dyspepsia Emaciation and General Debility.
